The architectural site plan illustrates a residential development on a hillside. The site is bounded by a road to the north, labeled "Rathausplatz". The development features a large building complex with a central courtyard, a parking lot, and a road. The building complex consists of several interconnected blocks, including a large central block with a courtyard, a smaller block to the east, and a long block to the south. The site is landscaped with trees and green spaces. The plan includes a north arrow and a scale bar.
